INTRODUCING — Cornus Floridus Rubrum
"SWEETWATER RED"—Flowering Dogwood
FIRST TIME ON THE MARKET!

BLOOM A DISTINCT, RICH RED!

Color of the blossoms stay bright and clear throughout the entire blooming period.

BRILLIANT FOLIAGE ON NEW GROWTH

The new foliage growth in spring is an outstanding trait; brilliant red leaves changing to dark green in the summer and in the fall again changing to crimson.

VIGOROUS GROWER

This plant grows with the vigor of a white flowering dogwood, but has sturdy branching habits and develops into a uniform tree.

MORE DISEASE RESISTANT

The "Sweetwater Red" showed more resistance to dogwood bores than other varieties tested.

BRADFORD FLOWERING PEAR

(Pyrus calleryana 'Bradford')

Very desirable, medium sized, non-fruiting tree with erect, up-sweeping branches. Snowy white blooms in spring and striking bronze-red foliage in fall.

FALL COLOR

SUMMER COLOR

The Bradford pear has become one of the 10 most popular ornamental trees in America, the several hundred thousand trees that have been planted in the past three decades are all propagations of a single tree in the National Arboretum in Washington, D.C. Dr. John Creech, now the director of the Arboretum, reached a decision in 1950 to clone a beautiful pear tree, the only one of its kind.

The Bradford pear is one of the earliest trees to bloom in the spring - a living work of art that gives a continuous parade of spectacular color, starting off with a mass of delicate snowy white blossoms. In spring and summer the foliage is a waxy dark green. Fall foliage colors range from yellow to orange and rich red. Trees grow in a dense upright shape.

"SWEET HART CHESTNUT" ©™

A NEW BLIGHT RESISTANT CHESTNUT

A replacement for the American Sweet Chestnut in size, taste and quality.

A cross between Dr. Ray Cather's West Virginia Sweet chestnut trees and the Hawk Chinese blight resistant chestnut trees.

The Hart cross pollinated trees are 40 years old without any signs of blight disease.

SWEET HART CHESTNUT

The above Sweet Hart Chestnut, a blight resistant tree planted in 1946. Has never shown any signs of blight disease. Measures 40 ft. tall, 40 ft. spread and 30 in. in diameter.

Chestnut extract may help stop the spread of Aids disease. See page 24.

INTRODUCING—New Sensational Blight Resistant "SWEET HART CHESTNUT" ©™

Found growing in an orchard in Ohio a few years ago, a cross between Dr. Ray Cather's West Virginia Sweet Chestnut and the Hawk Chinese Blight Resistant Chestnut.

Mr. & Mrs. Bert Harter were given three Chestnut trees by Dr. Cather in 1944. They purchased trees from the Hawk Nursery in 1946 to complete their orchard.

Dr. Oliver Diller was in charge of finding a substitute for the American Sweet Chestnut when he was at the Ohio Experiment Station in Wooster, Ohio. In 1961 he declared the Harter Chestnut the best sweet flavored chestnut found by his department and the U.S.D.A. in Ohio. (Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Boyd's named the new chestnut the Hart Chestnut in honor of Mr. & Mrs. Bert Harter, the founders and growers of the new chestnut after Mrs. Bert Harter agreed to the new name.

Sweet Hart Chestnut

INTRODUCING-The New Sensational Blight Resistant "SWEET-HART" CHESTNUT®

Found growing in an Ohio orchard a few years ago, a cross between Dr. Ray Cather's West Virginia Sweet American Chestnut and the Hawk Chinese blight resistant Chestnut, that the U S D A scientists selected from China in 1817.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harter were given three Chestnut trees by Dr. Cather in 1944. They purchased trees from Hawk Nursery in 1946 to complete their orchard.

Dr Oliver Dillard was in charge of finding a substitute for the American Sweet Chestnut when he was at the Ohio Experiment Station in Wooster, Ohio. In 1961 he declared the Harter Chestnut the best sweet flavored chestnut found by his department and the U S D A in Ohio. (Cleveland Plain Dealer)
